Did you just read all of the great events that are planned for our community?

Did you know that we have no events coordinator?

This means board members who are currently filling other roles are doing double duty to plan community events (on top of jobs and families.. Phew!).

We are urgently seeking help in events. Help provide leadership for one event.. Help for two.. Or sign on as our events coordinator! There will be plenty of assistance from the other board members. We have had to cancel events over the past year due to no help.

Hello Brevoort Park residents,

I hope you are enjoying this beautiful summer in our city. It was wonderful to see festival season in full swing and so many people in our parks and along Meewasin Trail.

Construction season continues and it has been challenging in some areas, but I am pleased to see many improvements to basic infrastructure in Ward 6. The storm retention pond at WWW Ashley Park has been a huge highlight, as it has helped relieve flooding pressures to area homes and businesses. For more information on construction in your area, go to www.saskatoon.ca/construction. Thank you for your patience as crews work to complete these projects.

Options for the Downtown Event and Entertainment District are expected to be made public before you read this newsletter. Whenever they are announced, the City will be seeking your feedback. While securing the event centre location is the next step, there will be many more steps before Council is asked to approve a capital project. It's hard to believe this journey began in 2016, and we clearly have a long way to go. Still, it is a significant step. Where we decide to locate this future event centre will set in motion many other aspects about how our downtown will evolve and grow. I want to send a shout out to our local Advisory Committee working with the City's technical experts, as they help to guide this process. It is a once-in-a-generation project, and together we will create the District with and for our whole community.

Thank you for the honour to represent you at City Hall. If you have any questions or comments, please be in touch at: cynthia.block@saskatoon.ca

Happy Fall!

Sincerely, Cynthia

Rink Repair Day

Our community rink can't run without you. We rely on volunteers to help make ice, clear snow, and complete repairs.

Our equipment requires some maintenance and the rink needs new puck board, paint and love.

Join us October 1 for a rink work-bee.

Free hotdog BBQ lunch for volunteers.

Watch our social media pages and the fall newsletter for additional information.

Rink Supervision

Our rink requires an operating grant to run. Part of the requirement for obtaining the grant is supervised rink time. We rely on volunteers to supervise the rink at this time and ensure pucks and sticks stay off the ice.

Unfortunately we have had ZERO volunteers over the last two years. In addition, our rink supervision board position is vacant for the 2022-2023 season.

If we do not have a volunteer to take on the board positions and if volunteers do not sign up for short shifts to assist, we run the risk of losing our funding, and consequently our rink.

If your children or family are rink users, please help. More information:

There are lots of stories out there and we want to hear them.

Indeed, we need to hear them. We are inundated with the news, whether it is from a social media site or television or the newspaper. ## As an immigrant, I longed for family. Now neighbours have become that kin for me

The kindness of strangers that have become family is a gift I will always cherish.

The following article was written with permission from CBC First Person and submitted by V. Lanke

Growing up, I always longed for more family. My family immigrated from India to Canada when I was four, so the only family members I really knew were my younger sister, mom and dad. While the four of us are a tight unit, sometimes it hasn't felt enough.

During holidays like Diwali and Christmas, our apartment would feel empty. I'd long for the sprawling families my friends at school had — grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins and friends, with plenty of family traditions.

In difficult moments, my longing for family was like a hole that would never fill. I'd wish for a support system to lean on, learn from and be reminded we weren't alone in the world.

In the 16 years that my family has lived in Saskatoon, I've learned that emptiness will always be a part of our immigrant experience. However, I've also found that sometimes people walk into your life and become your chosen family.

My parents were overwhelmed first-time home buyers when we first met Denny and Pat. I was nine at the time.

We pulled up to the house and noticed an elderly man tending his front lawn with great care. After taking a peek inside the house, we were on our way back to the car when the man smiled at us, as if inviting us in for a conversation.

When we asked about the area, he enthusiastically launched into a history of the neighbourhood and his family. Our conversation offered reassurance at a time when we needed it.

A day or two after we moved into the neighbourhood, our doorbell rang. That was how we came to know Denny, the man with a bright smile, and his wife Pat, a woman full of cheer and practical advice.

Denny and Pat always made us feel we belonged in the neighbourhood. Anytime we walked by, Pat would wave to us from their wide living room window and Denny would strike up a friendly conversation.

Together, Denny and Pat helped us navigate life any way they could. Denny enthusiastically offered valuable experience to home renovation projects from lawn care to fencing and roof work. Pat's endless wisdom helped with many of life's moments.

When I got into a specialized science program on the other side of the city as an elementary student, Denny and Pat generously drove me when it was too cold to take a bus. They would even park on our driveway, five minutes early every time, just so I wouldn't have to walk across the street to their home in the freezing weather.

Pat patiently taught my mom how to drive — an essential skill in Saskatoon. When it was my turn to learn, Pat taught me too. Now when one of us drives, I'm reminded of Pat's love.

When I moved for a summer job, I was worried because I didn't know how to cook. Pat gave me a parting gift of a cookbook, full of recipes gathered over the years. Many years later, I still refer to it.

One summer when my bicycle broke down, I asked Denny for help. He took me and my bike to the shop and explained the problem. He could have introduced me as his neighbour, but instead he said, "this is my granddaughter." I will never forget that moment.

Looking back, I realize I had already internalized that Denny and Pat were family. Their friendship has made sure no Christmas — a new tradition for our family — or birthday has felt empty.

I'm proud of many things, but being their granddaughter tops that list.

Our friendship with another family across the street also started with smiles through the window. One day, out of the blue, they generously invited our family to their 25th wedding anniversary celebrations. We showed up not knowing anyone, but they welcomed us into their lives without hesitation.

From there, our friendship blossomed. We've shared many meals together. They've introduced us to the sweetest of jams, Saskatoon berry crisp and the art of making an impeccable salad dressing, and my family has shared our Indian curries and sweets.

They've been the first to celebrate us with all of life's milestones. Even when we can't celebrate in person, they find a way. When Diwali rolled around in the pandemic, they sent us a box of cookies shaped as diyas — lamps that hold special meaning in our culture.

Through life's challenges — job loss and mental health journeys — they've stood by our side and been the people we could lean on. They still check in on us, reminding us each time that we are not alone.

Now when I think of family, I picture a web with strands connecting all the people that make us feel seen, heard, supported, understood and empowered. The most beautiful part is that this web can keep expanding.

With kindness and open hearts, Denny, Pat and the family across the street chose to embrace our immigrant family. Now they, in turn, have become the family I so deeply cherish.
